The Shield

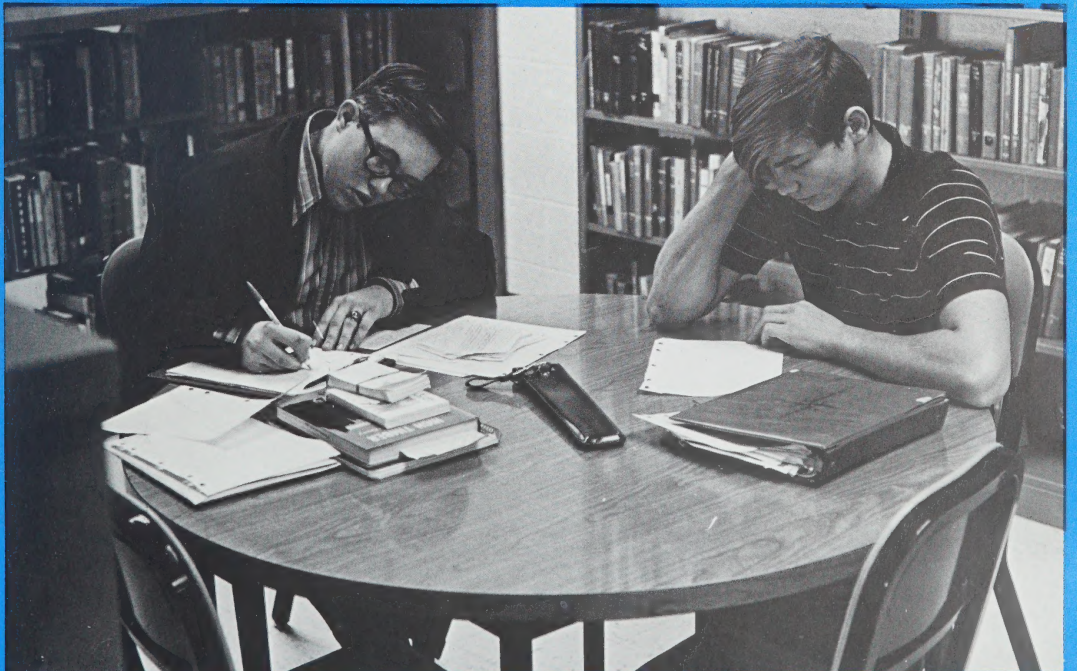

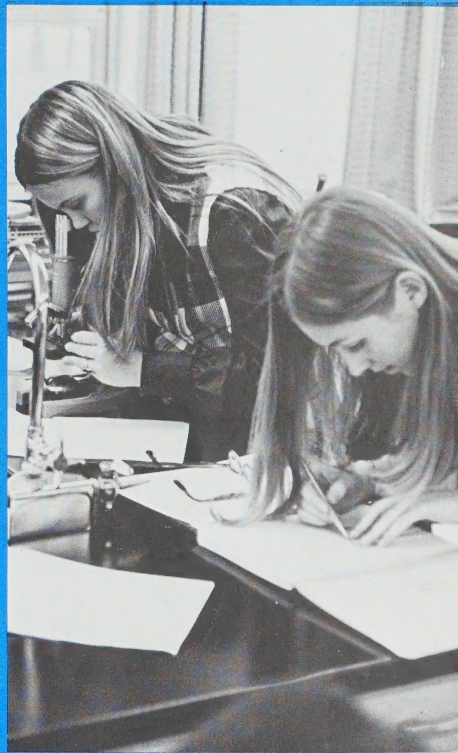

Today, Vaiden Whitley tenders a time . . .

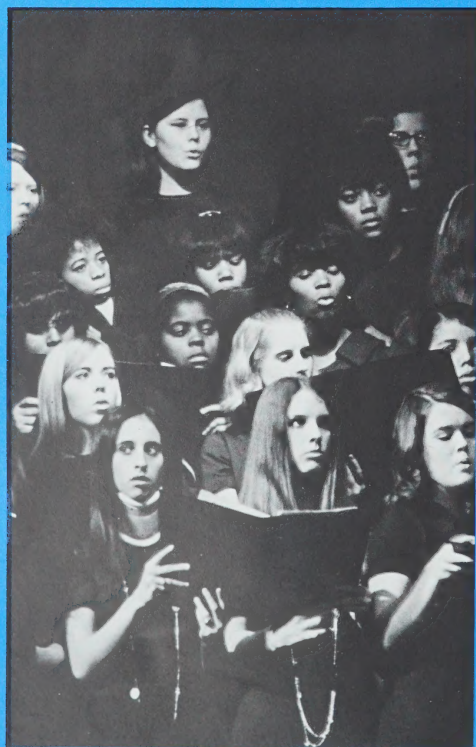

Time has fashioned her actions of yesterday into cherished traditions. Her tomorrows are perceived, yet cloaked, in a veil of mystery. However, the golden hours of Vaiden Whitley's today seek to fathom the total self of all those who pass her way and to nurture their talents into full, effective maturity.

Today Vaiden Whitley urges all to "Hold every moment sacred,

Give each clarity and meaning,
Each the weight of thine awareness,
Each its true and due fulfilment."

STUDENT LIFE

Prom couples revive "Roaring Twenties."

A '22 Pontiac, gay flappers, silent films, and home-made bathtub gin transposed Juniors, Seniors, and their guests on April 18, 1970, to "The Roaring Twenties" world. Spotlit, mirrored balls created hundreds of stars dramatically lighting "Gym Whitley's Speakeasy," where couples danced to the rhythmic strains of the City Councilmen.

The summit performance of the evening was the introduction of Outstanding Seniors, Class Officers, and Prom Committee Chairmen who, moving to the tune of "Bonnie and Clyde," gracefully fashioned the figures seventy and twenty. To conclude the entertainment, sophomore waiters and waitresses competed for applause in a rousing interpretation of the Charleston.

The City Councilmen update the "Roaring 20's" with their vibrant refrain.

Clasped hands, orchids, and candlelight clinch a memorable evening for Prom Juniors, Marshall Baker and Robin Stell.

Sporting immaculate tucks and flowing formals, couples interpret those 1920 tunes.

A moment from the Twenties becomes a modern-day reality for four flippant flappers.

Appropriately attired class leaders gallantly respond as they are introduced.

Senior Week highlights art of giving.

Seniors not only capitalized on the art of receiving but also projected the art of giving during Senior Week, a week set aside in May granting them special privileges. Appreciation for the right to drop the dress code and for a delightful fellowship picnic on the school grounds was reciprocated by grass cutting and broom sweeping the parking lot and surrounding area.

Relaxing in the cool, senior males bow to the ultra element of contentment—satiation.

Air of expectancy engulfs Senior Beth Bilisoly.

In regimented style, Seniors armed with brooms sweep the student parking lot clean.

First Whitley musical captivates audience.

Under the direction of Mr. Charles Burt, the Music Department presented "Swingin High", its first musical comedy, in April, 1970. The plot revolved around a stern new principal who imposed a rigid disciplined routine until a chemistry class explosion tossed him into an amnesiac state. Arousing from this as a real swinger, he coupled fun with learning for all his school folk.

Regretful teachers bid farewell to Cooper High's retiring principal, Henry Moore.

Michael Johnson, converted into a "really hip principal," over-joys or amazes students as he abolishes the harsh "McDuff Plan."

Faculty members, David Arnold and Debbie Liner, testify that "You Gotta Have Experience."

"Those Were the Days" unveils hidden talent.

"Those Were the Days", Whitley's popular Variety Show, played three nights in May, 1970, to a full house. Emceed by Dickie Stines and Larry Carter, the performance featured modern jazz routines, "soul singing", and popular tunes. An original composition "They Want to be Loved", as well as renditions by two faculty favorites, enthralled attenders. The presentation revealed the broad scope of hidden Whitley talent.

Assisted by Landon Wilder, an old pro, Emcees Larry Carter and Dickie Stines "rap" with the audience.

Debbie Tart penetrates the hearts of her listeners with her plaintive song of needed love.

A "Sly" group imparts the urgency of brotherhood among "Everyday People."

Commencement speakers challenge Seniors.

On Sunday afternoon, May 31, 1970, the Reverend Albert Fisher, Goldsboro District Superintendent of the United Methodist Church, challenged the Seniors to take full advantage of their own personal uniqueness and, using this, to make their greatest possible contribution to mankind. Preceding the message, the Vocal Ensemble sang "O Magnum Mysterium" and "Call to Remembrance."

Mr. Charles Dunn, Director of the State Bureau of Investigation, addressed the Senior Class on Monday evening, June 1. Urging the members to look upon graduation "as a preparation," he encouraged them to utilize the knowledge they have gained to make this a better world. Special music was rendered by the Whitley Chorus and Band under the direction of Mr. Charles Burt. Following the presentation of the Senior Class by Mr. Stanley Dail, Principal; Mr. C. Sidney Williams, Chairman of the Advisory Council, presented diplomas to the one hundred and seventy-nine graduates.

Thoughtful, silent graduates file out to face an uncertain future as audience stands to pay tribute.

To create a commencement atmosphere, Mr. Burt leads the band in the playing of the stately march, "Pomp and Circumstance."

"To thine ownself be true . . . thou canst not then be false to any man," the Reverend Albert Fisher reminds the Baccalaureate audience.

With faces mirroring a multitude of sentiments, Seniors and friends participate in Commencement Exercises.

Arriving at the apex of her high school career, Susan Thomas registers delighted satisfaction.

"Is there among you tonight a scientist, a governor...?" propounds Mr. Charles Dunn.

Homecoming begets nostalgic memories.

To complement the Warrior setting, Student Council members cheerfully anchor blue and white crepe paper rope for the Homecoming Dance.

Setting the pace for halftime, the Whitley Band strikes up a spirited version of "Solid Soul."

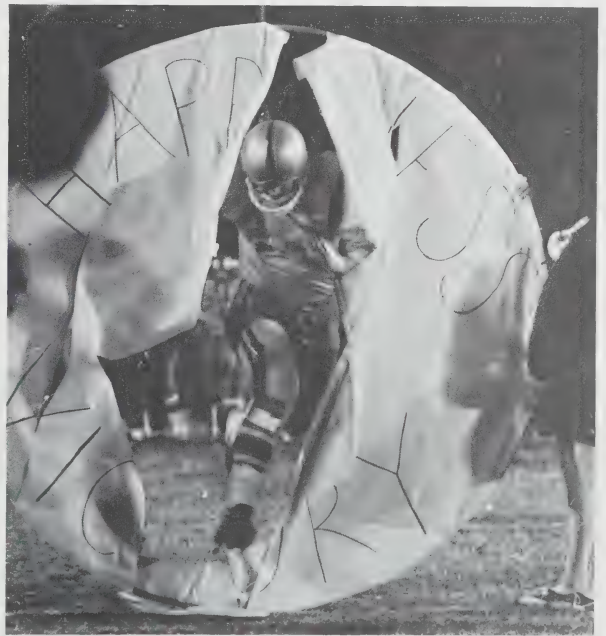

Newly crowned Queen Vicki Chamblee surveys her adoring subjects.

Whitley Warriors thrilled alumni and students as they matched North Johnston Panthers' speed until the final tragic moments of the Homecoming game on Friday, November 6, 1970. Equally great were the intricate drills executed at halftime by the Marching Warriors and the deft twirls of fiery batons by the Majorettes. This magnificent display was followed by the crowning of stunning Vicki Chamblee, Miss Vaiden Whitley, and radiant Patricia Debnam, Maid of Honor. The celebrities departed on the sparkling blue and white senior float. Music by the Dynamic Upsetters at the Student Council sponsored dance terminated the activities of a memorable evening.

Maid of Honor Patricia Debnam, attended by Lorenza Dunn, pensively contemplates the single red rose—symbol of her role.

A powerful Warrior bursts through the hoop, ready to wage battle against North Johnston.

Meet Your Teacher Night lures parents.

Parents were invited to view school facilities and to meet the teachers on Thursday evening, October 8, 1970. After a cordial welcome by Vaiden Whitley Principal Mr. Dail, Student Council Officers directed guests to the various areas of the building where they conversed with faculty members and observed equipment used and work done by students in the classroom.

Directed by Student Council members, interested visitors move through Whitley corridors on Meet Your Teacher Night.

Mrs. Stalvey good-naturedly listens to solicitous parent queries.

Prompted by mutual concern, Math Teacher Vann publicly secures pack with student's parents.

*"Get Up and Go"
is marked success.*

The marked success of its first comedy inspired the Music Department to continue such productions. Thus, in November, 1970, the choral and band students presented "Get Up and Go."

Gradually the cast unraveled the story of staid life in boys' and girls' schools. However, propelled by the sly maneuvering of public relations man, Uncle Chester, romance blossomed between the authoritative headmaster and the straitlaced school mistress, finally opening the door between the schools, merging the two, forming a coeducational house of learning.

Indignant Abigail glowers while Uncle Chester sputters an evasive explanation for photographing her with Oscar.

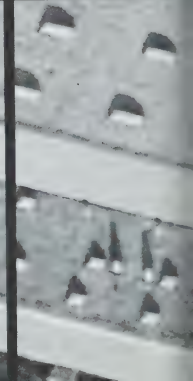

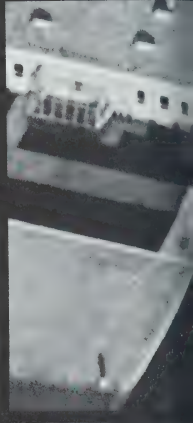

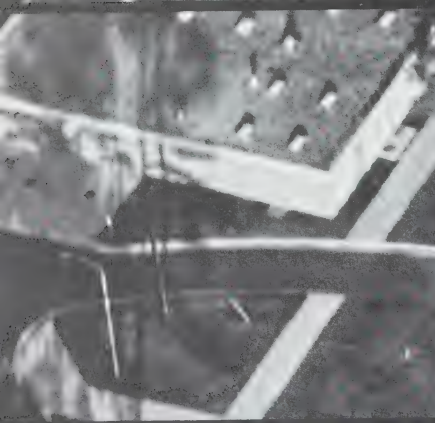

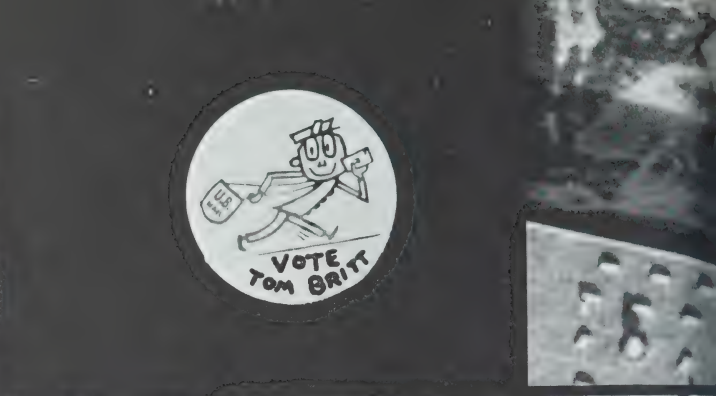

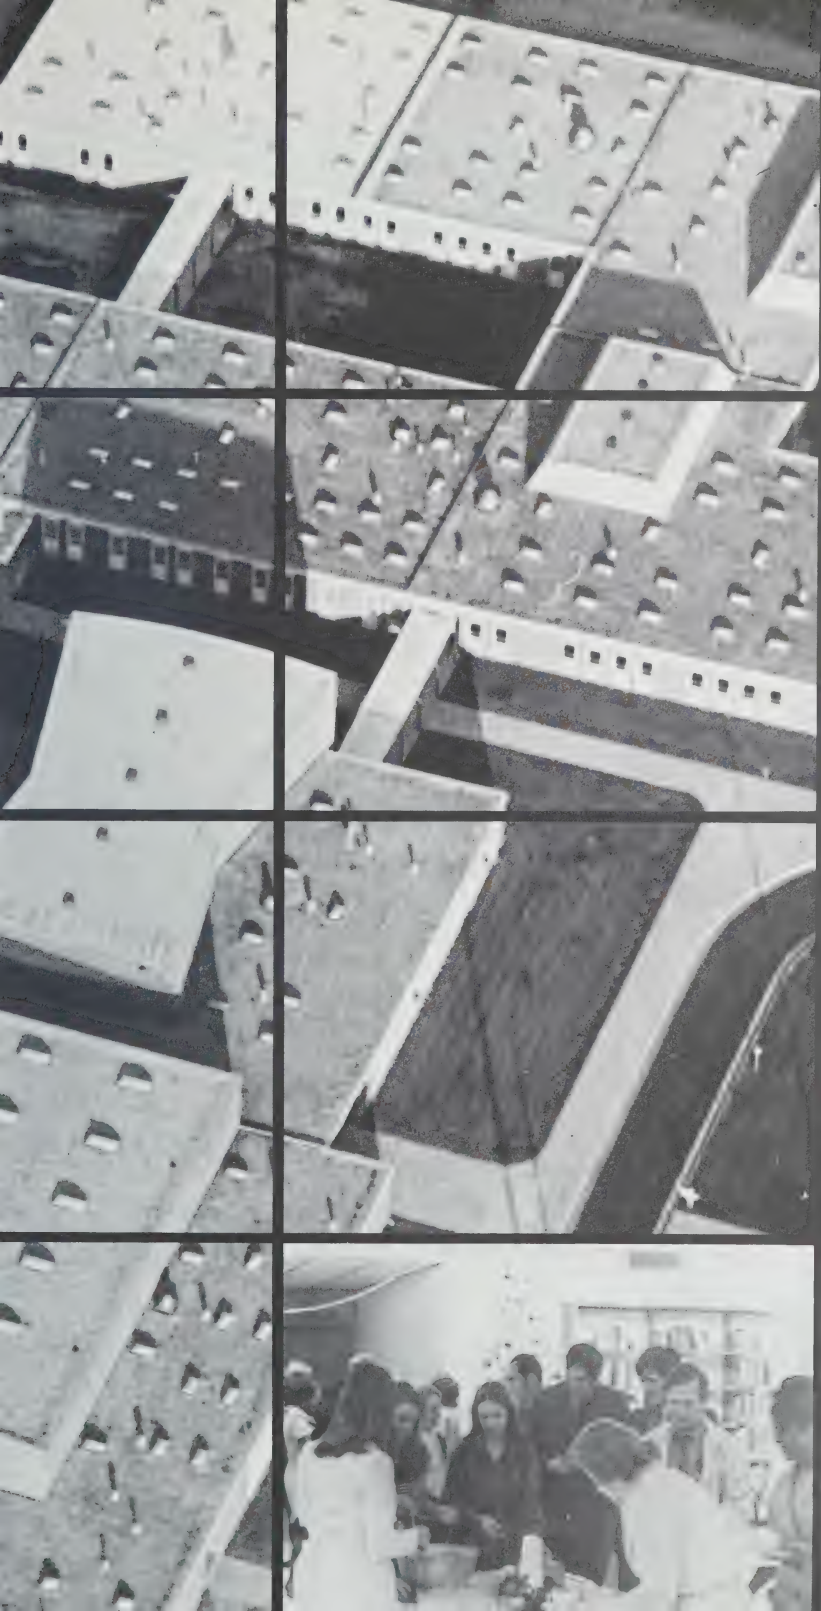

Playing hooky can be fun declares this Soda Shop Quartet as they sing for a "hot fudge, double dip, caramel . . ."

Faculty members, Steve Shearin and Frances Newton, steal a few precious moments of "togetherness."

Clutching her mop, Janitress Elise Witt trolls "You Gotta Get Up and Go."

The Shield Staff ventures to depict total Whitley life.

Devoting endless hours to the 1971 edition of The Shield, the staff members carefully and selectively assembled a review of the academic and extracurricular activities which transpired during the school year. Responsible for important aspects of The Shield were the determined and dedicated writers and photographers who conjointly strove with the invaluable aid of typists, artists, and sponsors to present a picture of life at Vaiden Whitley.

Recalling the approaching deadline, Sponsor Mrs. Perry reminds Editor Nancy Woodard that much work remains to be done on 1971 Yearbook.

Beta services enrich school program.

Through meaningful projects, the Beta Club essayed to promote the values of achievement, character, and leadership.

Launching the year's activities was a Saturday morning clean-up of the "Hill" on which is located the school sign. Unanimous membership participation in serving approximately one thousand persons at a barbeque supper enabled the club to raise funds for the year's projects.

Regular projects included giving morning devotions for the student body, raising and lowering the flag, and ushering for all school functions. Traditionally, twelve Beta members marshaled for Commencement Exercises. During the Christmas holidays, Beta members began preparations for their state, district, and county conventions. Other highlights of the year were a two-part ecological presentation, a visit by State President Jack Simpson, and the hospitable reception of the Wake County Beta Chapter. All activities fostered Beta fellowship.

Councils accentuate value of oneness.

Functioning as a direct line of communication, the Student Council served both students and administration. It undertook more responsibilities in school affairs by assuming a more active role in various projects.

Among these were sponsoring Homecoming activities, planning and supervising class officer election procedures, operating the concession stand at all football games, giving a faculty Christmas tea, and presenting a Christmas emphasis program to the student body. During spring semester, a School Beautification Week, and a St. Valentine's Dance were held. To round out the year's work, the Council conducted Freshman Orientation and directed Senior Week.

Officers and members attended county, district, and state meetings; workshops; and conventions. Climaxing convention campaigning was the election of Sally Freeman as State Second Vice-President.

The Human Relations Council, cooperating with the Student Council, sought to cultivate an atmosphere of unity among students.

FHA focuses on individual development.

Focusing on individuality, the Future Homemakers of Vaiden Whitley were encouraged to assume unique positions in the family, community, and world.

Speakers at the monthly meetings endeavored to instill in the members the knowledge and skills necessary to carry out the responsibilities in these areas. Visiting "senior citizens" and reading to day nursery children provided opportunities for further individual development.

To climax the year's work, the young homemakers presented a fashion show, in which they modeled their own creations for an audience of proud parents.

Manifold contests play vital role in FFA's program.

At a five-day leadership school in September, the Future Farmers of America planned the year's projects. These included the collection of food for a needy family as well as the annual Parent-Student Banquet which the club finances by the sale of mixed nuts.

During the year members also engaged in numerous contests such as public speaking, parliamentary procedure, land judging, and quartet singing. Outstanding participants in these were recognized at the spring banquet.

FSA

The various programs presented at the monthly meetings of the Future Secretaries of America included a panel discussion concerning problems arising in the office and a candlelight installation of club officers. Some of the subjects featured were "Typing Tips" and "The Importance of Memory to the Secretary." These programs were given by the sponsoring organization, the Raleigh Chapter of the National Secretarial Association.

FUTURE SECRETARIES OF AMERICA MEMBERS: First row: Reporter, Patricia McCullers; Treasurer, Betsy Alford; Corresponding Secretary, Paulette Perry; Recording Secretary, June Richardson; Vice-President, Melba Strickland; President, Ginger Barden. FBLA

The Future Business Leaders of America were challenged to broaden and perfect skills acquired in the classroom. Entertaining skits depicting desirable and undesirable qualities of business personnel encouraged high quality performance in members. Further incentive was afforded by the monthly selection of an outstanding business student.

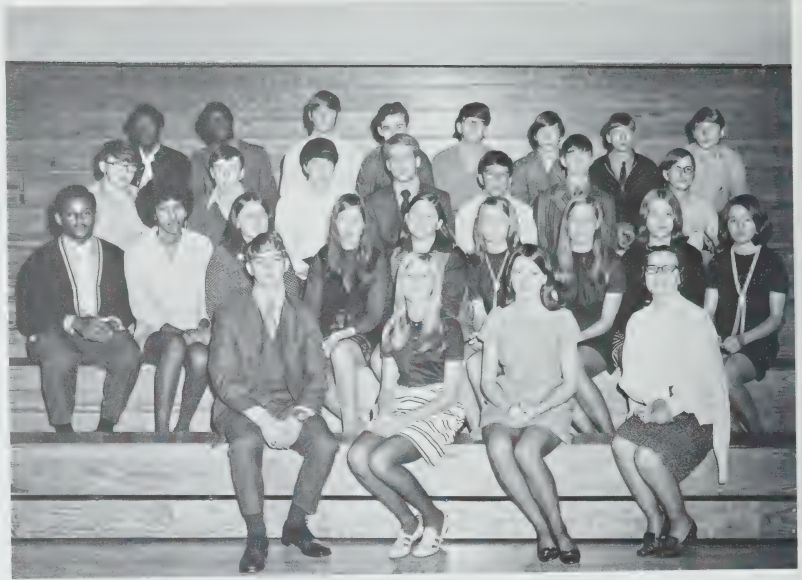

The officers of the Business Clubs hosted a tea for the Business Teachers Association Meeting.

Science Club

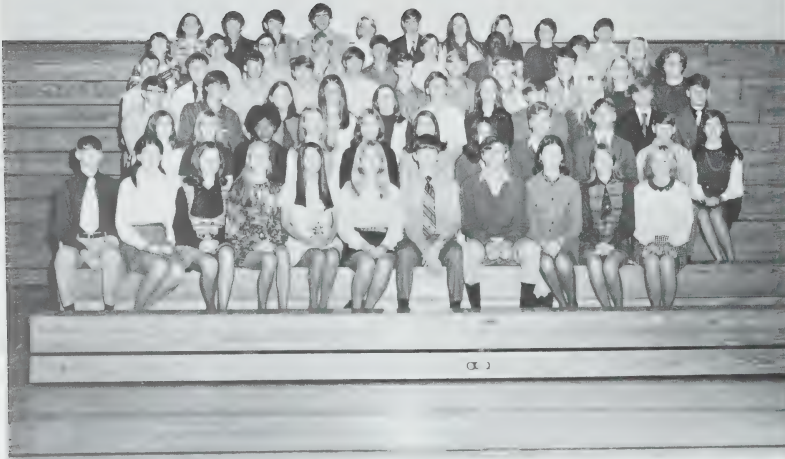

The paramount activity of the Science Club was the supervision of Science Emphasis Night. In addition to preparing projects that were displayed on that night, members gained a greater appreciation for animal life, a broader knowledge of science careers, and a greater awareness of disease effects through studying these topics at their monthly meetings.

Math Club

In order to involve all members, the Math Club divided into groups that through the use of a variety of instructional materials and methods provided a better perception of certain mathematical topics. By employing oral or written quizzes, cross-numbers, puzzles, and group contests, the members concentrated on practical application of such topics as sets, Venn diagram, different bases, and number theory.

MATH CLUB MEMBERS: First row: S. Wall; Vice-President, Elise Witt; C. Green; B. Shearon; Secretary-Treasurer, Susan Tunstall; President, Sherrie Davis; R. Horton; P. Perkinson; J. Todd; M. VICA

Continuing to fulfill its purpose of preparing members for leadership in the world of work, the Whitley Chapter of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America conducted monthly discussions and viewed films that revealed qualities vital to success in their future roles. At Christmastime, money and food were given to a needy family in the community.

Each month the Future Teachers of America honored a senior who had made major contributions in the areas of leadership and service to the school. At regular meetings, members were intrigued by thought-provoking word games and enlightening student-teacher discussions on the pros and cons of the teaching profession. An added pleasure was the entertaining of the faculty and staff at a tea during a week set aside to express appreciation to teachers.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA MEMBERS: First row: Sponsor, Miss Gay; President, Candace Tongue; Vice-President, Frances Newton; Secretary, Marty Parish; Treasurer, Debbie Wagstaff; Reporter, Sheryl Davis; Song Leader, Marcia Barham. Photography Club

Urging its members to pursue the principles of good photography, the Photography Club executed a series of programs outlining the basic procedures for taking and developing pictures. The goal sought by each participant was to produce a photograph that could be printed in the yearbook or displayed in a school showcase. The club purchased an enlarging easel in addition to redecorating the Whitley dark room.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB MEMBERS: First row: Vice-President, Don Underhill; Secretary-Treasurer, Elise Witt; President, Will Perry; Sponsor, Mrs. Rogers. Second row: A. Tripp, S. Davis, S. Shearon, G. Students lettering in varsity sports merited membership in the Monogram Club. To accent school spirit, they sported identifying jackets; and to generate a competitive spirit, they engaged in physical fitness contests and interclub ball games. However, the major activity of the year was the spring banquet at which excellence in each phase of the athletic program was recognized.

Pep Club

To satisfy the need for an organized effort to promote school spirit and to help acquaint the student body with the athletic teams, a new club, the Pep Club, evolved. At all home games, club members were seated in a reserve section and supported the players with ardent cheering and colorful banners.

The Whitley Bands broaden performing scope.

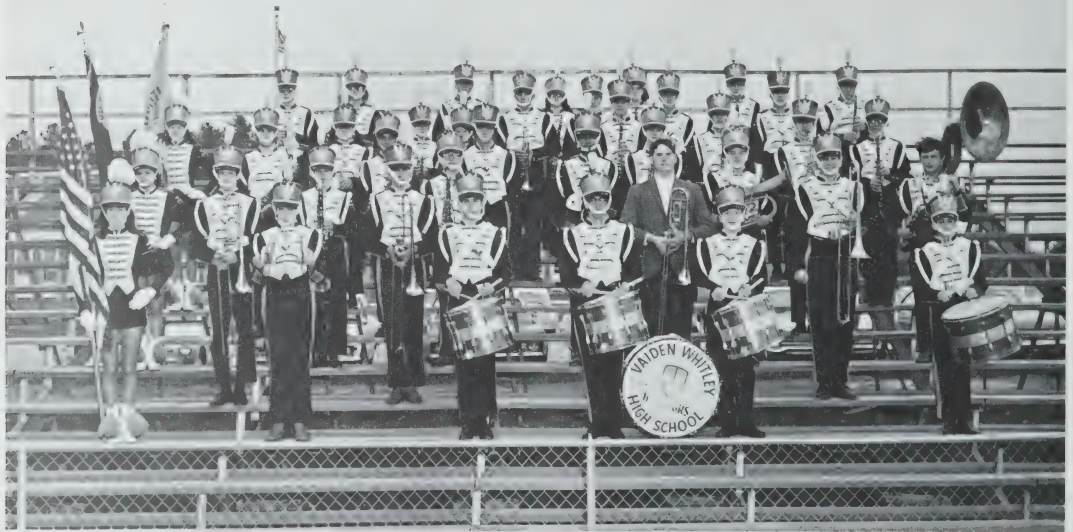

Under the able direction of Mr. Charles Burt, the Marching Warriors adeptly represented Vaiden Whitley at many events. Among these were the Wendell Harvest Parade, Chadburn Strawberry Festival, and Christmas Parades in Wake Forest, Zebulon, and Raleigh. Their half time performances at home football games likewise evoked a sense of pride from the fans.

The acquisition of a bass clarinet and a sousaphone broadened the performing scope of another Whitley musical group, the Concert Band, and enhanced their Christmas and spring concerts. In April they participated in the Regional Band contest in which last year's group rated good. Their final performance of the year was at the Commencement Exercises in June.

A third group, the Dance Band, entertained civic clubs and provided the orchestral background for the Department musicals. Mr. Burt, not only directed this band, but also accompanied them at the piano.

Chorus groups perform for varied assemblages.

Traveling to Durham in the fall was the first of several appearances made by the Chorus. These included singing for shoppers at the North Hills Mall, students at neighboring elementary schools, and Whitley classmates as well as giving Christmas and spring concerts. Participating in the District Choral Contest in March they endeavored to best last year's rating of excellent. In the spring eighteen members were chosen to join with students from over the state in forming the Allstate Chorus which trained and performed in Greensboro.

The combined efforts of all Whitley musical groups produced a highly successful comedy in November and Variety Show in April.

Silently admonishing his choristers to sing softly, Mr. Burt directs the closing phrases of "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming."

Coach Sasser relays last minute game tactics to intent Whitley Warrior.

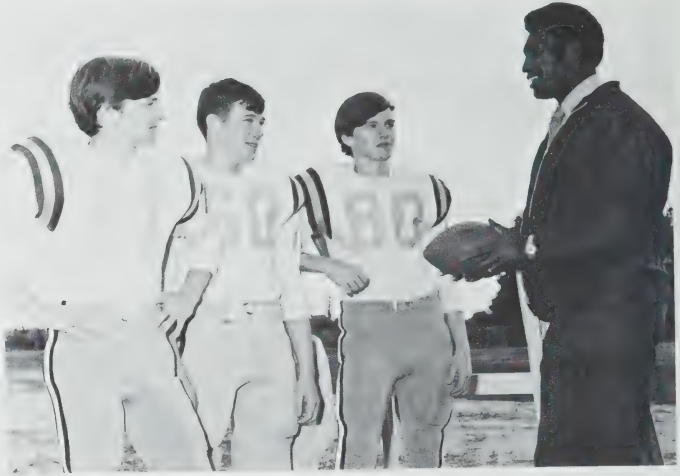

Slamming against Millbrook's offensive Wildcats, Warrior linemen clear way for Paul Berry's short yardage plunge.

Having lost the bulk of last season's squad, the 1970 Varsity Football Team launched a "rebuilding" campaign under the competent leadership of their new coach. The high-spirited Warriors, though young and inexperienced, resolutely battled to close scoring gaps and to maintain Whitley's grid-iron might.

Up and coming team learns the hard way.

The friendly nine heartily greet visiting Wake Foresters with a cheery H-E-L-L-O.

"All for Whitley, stand up and holler!" With this popular command, a hardy thirteen-member varsity cheerleading squad, guided by Sponsor Mrs. Clarke, pursued the task of creating and maintaining Warrior spirit. Determined to display the proud "blue," they decorated goal posts and distributed spirit tags. To further support the athletic teams, the girls banded together to form Whitley's newest club, the Pep Club. Joining hands with the ardent thirteen were nine eager Junior Varsity Cheerleaders, who shared in the zealous effort to inspire Whitley teams and rouse school spirit.

ACADEMICS

*The Administration
effectively welds
all Whitley facets.*

The welding of the many and varied facets constituting Vaiden Whitley's complex life into an effectively functioning whole can be primarily attributed to the able Administration led by Principal Stanley Dail. This year the administrative burdens were shared by a full time Assistant Principal, Mr. Howard Todd. Uniting their efforts, they continued to plan and arrange for the total growth of each Whitley student.

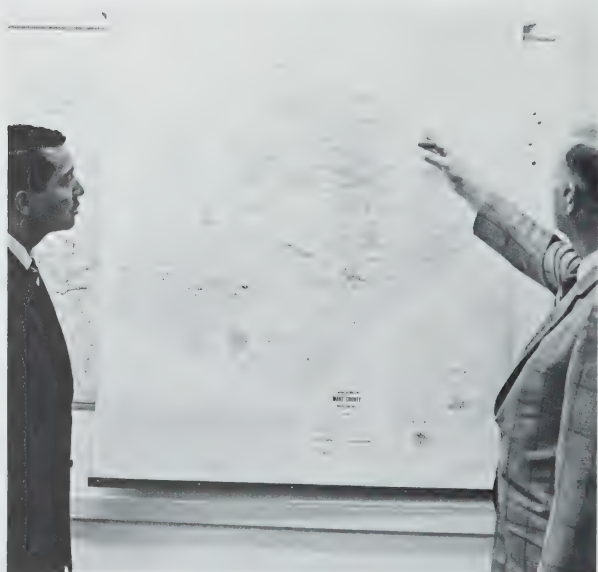

As representatives of the community, the Advisory Council joined hands with the Superintendent and Administration in this program to advance the educational opportunities available at Vaiden Whitley.

Staff assists, guides, and provides.

Rendering invaluable assistance to both faculty and students, Mrs. Tidsale competently prepared daily bulletins, registered students, and kept numerous school records.

As well as maintaining an atmosphere conducive to study and encouraging recreational reading, the School Librarian made accessible to students and faculty a variety of materials which enriched the curriculum.

The Guidance Department through counseling, informational services, and individual interviews steered students toward discovery of their potentials and their opportunities for total development.

Lending a helping hand, the Student Assistants cheerfully performed diverse tasks which facilitated operations in the library and school offices.

Language Department plies communication.

Believing that the ability to communicate well on all levels is a prime ingredient in successful and happy living, the English Department established two major aims. The first was to encourage students to develop their own ideas about life through impressions gained from the study of classic works. Secondly, the Department strove to teach students the skills necessary for effective transfer of their thoughts, feelings, and ideas.

To broaden the student's understanding of other cultures and to convey the linguistic skills of French and Spanish were the prime goals of the Foreign Language Department.

Diversity describes vocational courses.

In its efforts to supply practical and technical educational opportunities, the Vocational Department broadened its curriculum to include a new course, Agricultural Cooperative.

The Home Economics Department stressed the numerous phases essential to maintaining a wholesome home life.

The Trade and Industrial Division provided two programs: Industrial Cooperative Training and Trade Preparatory Training. The first afforded experience on the job, while the second offered opportunities for developing skills in auto mechanics, drafting, and electronics.

Students participating in chorus and band acquired knowledge of the technical and aesthetic elements of music, along with a sincere appreciation for the beauty and variety illustrated by this fine art.

FEATURES

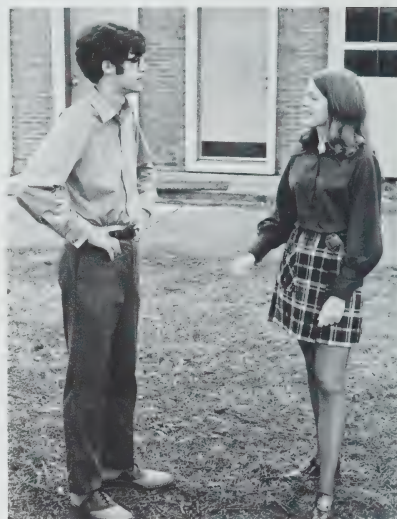

Deserving students merit recognition.

At an assembly on May 20, 1970, students who had rendered superior service to Whitley along with exceptional achievers in academics, athletics, and music received appropriate awards identifying their accomplishments.

Culminating the afternoon's events, President Ronnie Driver presented a lighted aerial transparency of the school, the Senior Class gift.

SPECIAL AWARDS: Governor's School, Art, David Baynes; Outstanding Freshman Girl, Jamie Greene.

Marshalling is coveted Beta privilege.

In recognition of their excellent scholastic achievement, twelve junior Beta members were chosen to marshal at all commencement exercises. This was one of their most privileged services to the school.

Marshals dutifully line up to receive commencement programs and last minute instructions from Directors Perry and Stalvey.

CHIEF MARSHAL: Ruth Stalvey

MARSHALS: First row: Ruth Stalvey, Susan Tunstall, Nancy Woodard, Lou Ellen Jones, Betty Shearon, Ruth

Five students assume regional club posts.

In conjunction with holding offices in the Whitley Chapters, five students also filled posts of leadership in the state or county organization. These persons ably represented their respective groups as they proficiently performed their duties at conventions, banquets, and workshops.

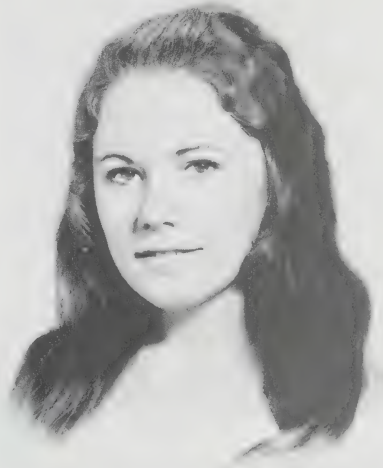

Sally Freeman practices her campaign speech, which convinced members of the N. C. Association of Student Councils she should be their Vice-President.

Pooling their efforts, Sheryl Davis, Wake County FTA Historian, and Candace Tongue, Wake County FTA Secretary, settle preliminaries for their next big meeting.

Meditatively jotting down a few reflections, David Harris, FFA Wake County Federation Reporter, makes initial preparation for his next news article in "The Gold Leaf Farmer."

Lovely Joyce Medlin reigns as Miss FSA of North Carolina.

Outstanding Seniors serve faithfully.

Seniors who superlatively portrayed the qualities: service, leadership, scholarship, and character were named outstanding by the Whitley faculty.

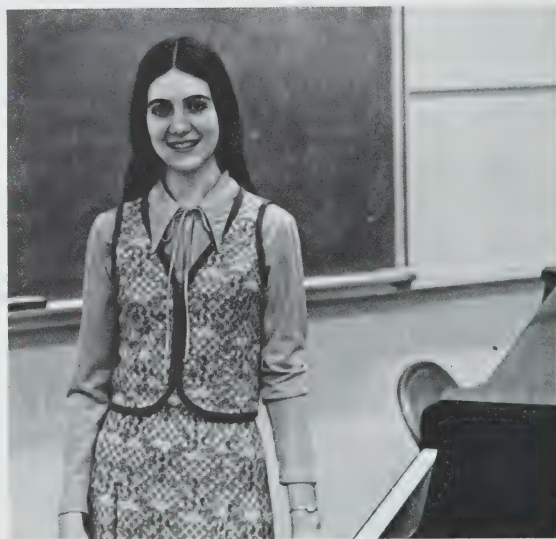

Joe Anne Todd

Ably spearheading the many projects of Whitley's leading service organization, Joe Anne rendered superior service to Vaiden Whitley. As president of the Beta Club, she directed fund raising projects, planned morning devotion schedules, and secured ushers for school programs. She also assisted in the library her junior and senior years as well as working on the school yearbook, marshalling at graduation, serving in the Homecoming Court, and acting as a sophomore class officer. Her qualities of leadership, service, dependability, and patriotism earned for her the 1970-71 DAR Good Citizenship Award. Joe Anne expects to study pharmacy at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

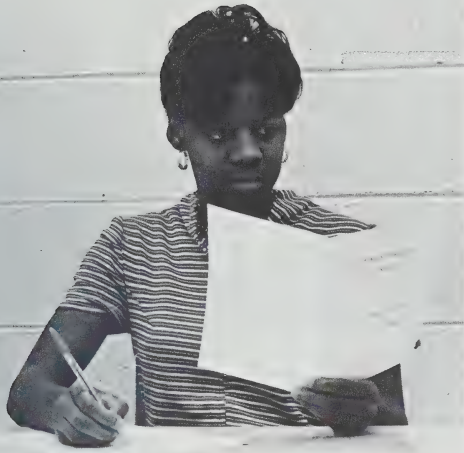

Connie Page Nowell

Assisting in the school office and representing her class in various capacities were ways Connie served Vaiden Whitley. As an office assistant, she rendered aid to students and visitors along with performing many routine tasks. For three years, she actively represented her class on the Student Council. Her junior year she was one of the two junior members of the Homecoming Court. In conjunction with these activities, she efficiently executed the duties of Beta treasurer her senior year and served as a chief cheerleader her sophomore year. Connie's future plans include entering nursing school next fall.

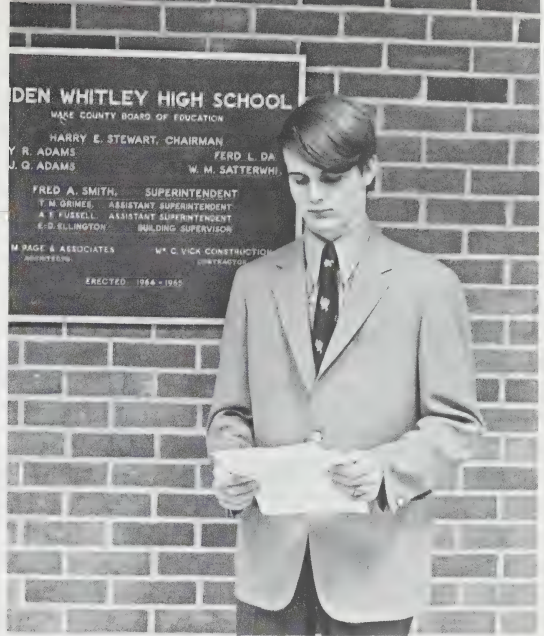

Ruth Gale Stalvey

Talented and skillful participation in the Whitley music program was characteristic of the manner Ruth served her school. These varied contributions included singing, accompanying, and acting. During her junior and senior years, she accompanied the Chorus; and for three years she sang in the Vocal Ensemble. Typical of her performances in school musicals was her portrayal of the leading role in the fall show. She was also selected to sing in the Allstate Chorus and to attend a Choral Summer Institute. Ruth's academic excellence merited membership in the Beta Club, the post of chief marshal, and the receipt of the French and Betty Crocker Awards. Plus these activities, she worked on the school yearbook. Next fall, she will enter the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and study music.

Bonnie Jean Jones

Performing the duties as president of the senior class, Bonnie devoted many hours in service to her school. Her leadership tasks were varied and manifold. Naming committees, working on class projects, and participating in the Commencement Exercises were senior activities demanding her careful consideration plus much of her time. However, Bonnie found time to take part in the work of the business clubs, the Future Business Leaders and the Future Secretaries of America. She looks forward to additional study next year in the field of business.

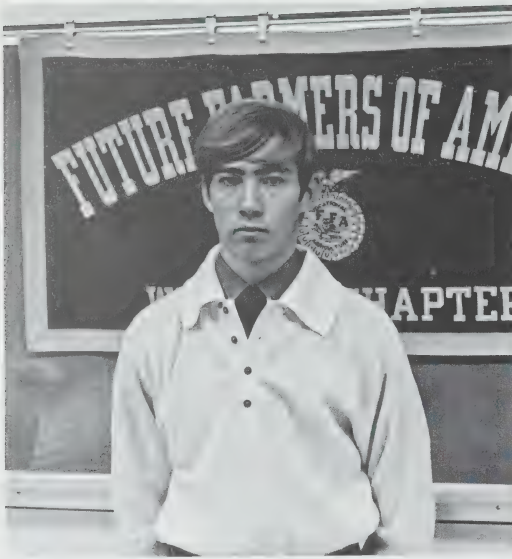

Larry Bruce Liles

Working to maintain a unified student body was Larry's prime goal as co-president of the Student Council and member of the Human Relations Council. In this area, he offered his greatest service to his school. Larry also represented Whitley at the Student Council Workshop and state convention. His exceptional artistic talents were displayed as he prepared Student Council and Beta Club campaign materials along with doing art work for the yearbook. His junior year, he served as secretary-treasurer of both Math and Photography Clubs. Next year will find him furthering his education in the School of Environmental Design at North Carolina State University.

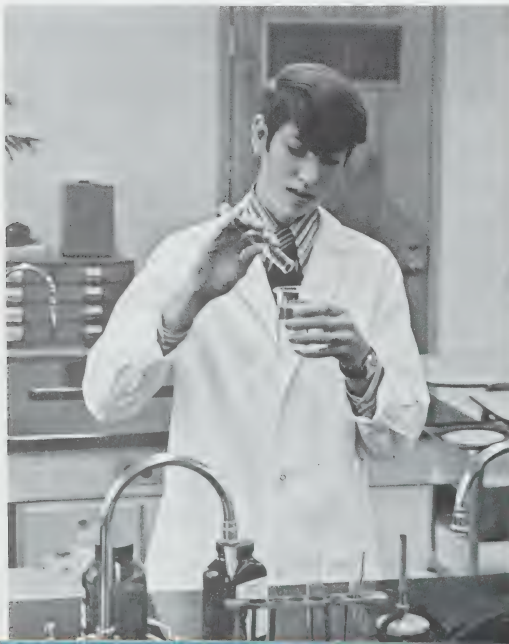

Betty Lou Shearon

As a member of the Beta Club, Betty worked diligently and faithfully on its many projects for school betterment. She likewise served as club secretary, member of the Executive Council, and Whitley's representative at the Beta State Convention. In recognition of her academic achievement, Betty was selected to marshal at the Commencement Exercises and to participate in the National Science Foundation Biology Summer Program. Besides these services, she was an accompanist for the Chorus and a member of the Vocal Ensemble, Student Council, and Yearbook Staff. Upon graduation, she plans to further her education in the field of biology at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

David Ernest Harris

David made his greatest contribution to his school as a member of the Future Farmers of America. During his four years in the club, he served as reporter and vice-president of the local club and as Wake County Federation reporter. Likewise, he was an outstanding member of the forestry, tool identification, and parliamentary procedure teams as well as recipient of the Chapter Farmer Degree and Star Greenhand Award along with applicant for State Farmer Degree. In addition to many other activities, David was a member of the Whitley baseball team, a member of the Beta Club, and a Commencement Marshal. After graduation he plans to enter North Carolina State University.

Randall Wayne Greene

Expert leadership marked the service rendered by Randy for his classmates and his school. He held the offices of sophomore and junior class presidents as well as that of senior class vice-president. His qualities of leadership were further demonstrated on the basketball court where he not only won the respect of his teammates, but also the admiration of his opponents. Moreover, Randy participated in Homecoming activities for three years along with serving on the Beta Executive Council two years and the Human Relations Council his senior year. Next year, he will continue his studies in the area of physical education at Appalachian State University.

Charles Thomas Faison

Notable academic excellence characterized Charles' tenure at Vaiden Whitley. An invaluable member of the Beta Club, he served on the Executive Council and marshalled at the Commencement Exercises. In addition, he ushered at many school functions and worked untiringly on the club's various service projects. Charles' interest and achievement in the science field merited several honors. He was a biological winner in the local Science Fair, a recipient of the Chemistry Award, and a participant in a National Science Foundation Biology Institute. After graduation, Charles will study science at the University of North Carolina.

*Superlative qualities

Nancy Gail Woodard

Total involvement in all activities of the various clubs and committees on which she served demonstrated Nancy's devotion to her school. She responsibly filled the post of Chairman of the Homecoming Float Committee as well as efficiently functioning on the Beta Executive Committee and marshalling at the Graduation Exercises. Her major contribution to her school was made as a member of the Yearbook Staff. Nancy culminated her work on the Staff by serving as editor of The Shield her senior year. In the summer of her junior year, she participated in the World Academy European Program. She anticipates attending Meredith College after graduation.

Elise Marie Witt

Singing labeled many of Elise's contributions to the Whitley program and prompted her selection as one of its representatives in several choral workshops and the North Carolina Allstate Chorus. During her four years in high school, she was a valuable member of the Vocal Ensemble as well as appearing in many of the Music Department's dramatic productions. Her scholastic achievement netted membership in the Beta Club, where she served on the Executive Council, and the privilege of marshalling at Commencement Exercises. Furthermore, she was a participant in the Phillips Academy Summer Session, a member of both Yearbook Staff and Student Council, and vice-president of Math Club. After graduation, Elise will continue her education at a University.

William Horace Perry

Will's services to his school were many and varied. Among these was holding offices in the Beta and Photography Clubs. His senior year found him acting as president of the Photography Club and as chief yearbook photographer. Also Will, as vice-president of the Beta Club, devoted much time to special Beta projects besides serving as chairman of the Beta Executive Council. In addition to these activities, he functioned as WKIX correspondent for Vaiden Whitley, attended a National Science Foundation Summer Program, and was a Science Fair Winner. He purposes to study medicine at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Science Emphasis Night projects research.

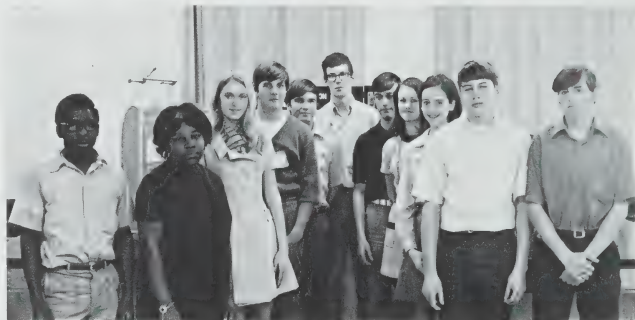

The annual Science Emphasis Night was held on April 10, 1970. At this time, students exhibited projects displaying research and experimental effort covering a variety of scientific fields of study. Problems relative to colors in food, effects of x-ray on chick embryos, and construction of Hilsch Vortex tube were some of the challenges stemming from classroom activity that students had further pursued. Ribbons were awarded those projects of unusual merit.

In reply to Robin Knight's inquiry, Joe Anne Todd points out quantities of artificial coloring used in certain foods.

Paul Gardner and Bryant Lewis examine Drosophila larvae grown for their prize-winning genetics project.

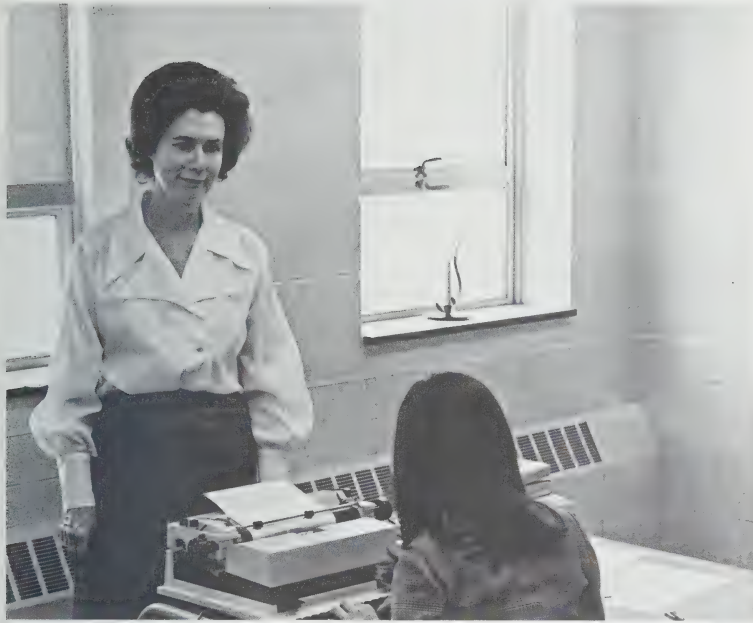

BIOLOGICAL SCIENCE WINNERS: David Gillespie, Ellen Gillespie, Carolyn Knott, Paul Berry, David Baynes, Don Underhill, Tom Britt, Margaret Underhill, Terry Horton, Paul Gardner, Bryant Lewis.

Exceptional performance earns acclaim.

Outstanding Teacher of 1969-70, Mrs. Katherine E. Horton, checks on one of her busy typing students.

In recognition of exceptional classroom performance, the Wendell Chamber of Commerce presented awards to the teachers in the schools of the area who were chosen by their peers to be recipients of this unexpected honor. Whitley's teacher received her award at the spring banquet given by the Advisory Council for the school faculty.

Two Whitley students were likewise recognized for excellence. The Daughters of the American Revolution and General Mills presented awards to them in the areas of citizenship and homemaking.

Joe Anne Todd, Vaiden Whitley's 1971 DAR Representative, patriotically studies "The Declaration of Independence."

Ruth Stalvey, recipient of the Betty Crocker Homemaking Award, realizes "a stitch in time saves nine."

*Concerted efforts readily net
much needed funds.*

"Get out and sell!" re-echoed in Whitley corridors in the fall as students raised funds for needed materials and equipment. Moreover, a competitive spirit prevailed since homeroom vied to outsell homeroom and seniors endeavored to outdo freshmen. The concerted efforts netted approximately four thousand dollars.

Basketball concession stand workers willingly serve their customers.

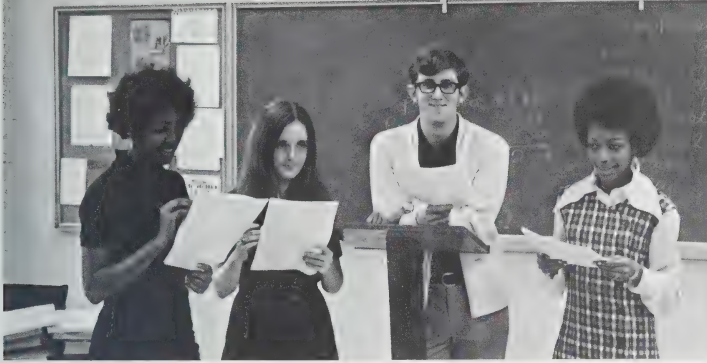

With five bars left, Elizabeth Bowyer, high chocolate salesman, ponders best customer approach.

Pursuing his habitual morning task during the magazine drive, Randy Strickland, Whitley's high salesman, counts his dollars.

Classes and Clubs applaud superior efforts.

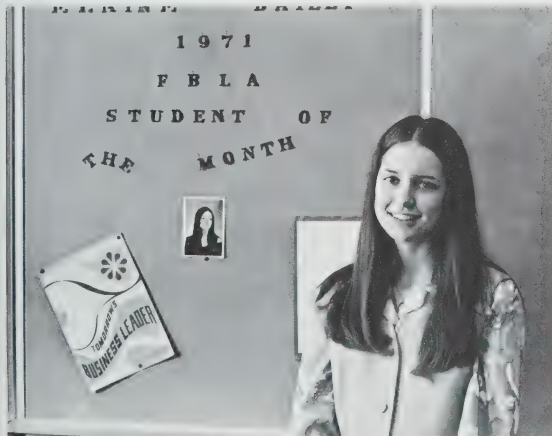

Classes and clubs promoted as special projects superior student efforts in the fields of learning and serving. Bulletin board displays, club programs, and class applause were ways whereby these students were acknowledged for their particular accomplishments.

Gathered around lectern, sixth period Speech and Dramatics Class' Speakers of the Week, compare notes on best delivery.

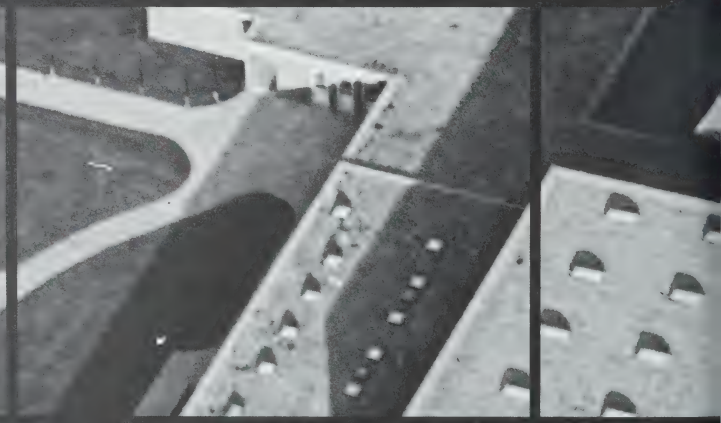

The Speakers of the Week of the Morning Speech and Dramatics Class gladly assemble for photographer.

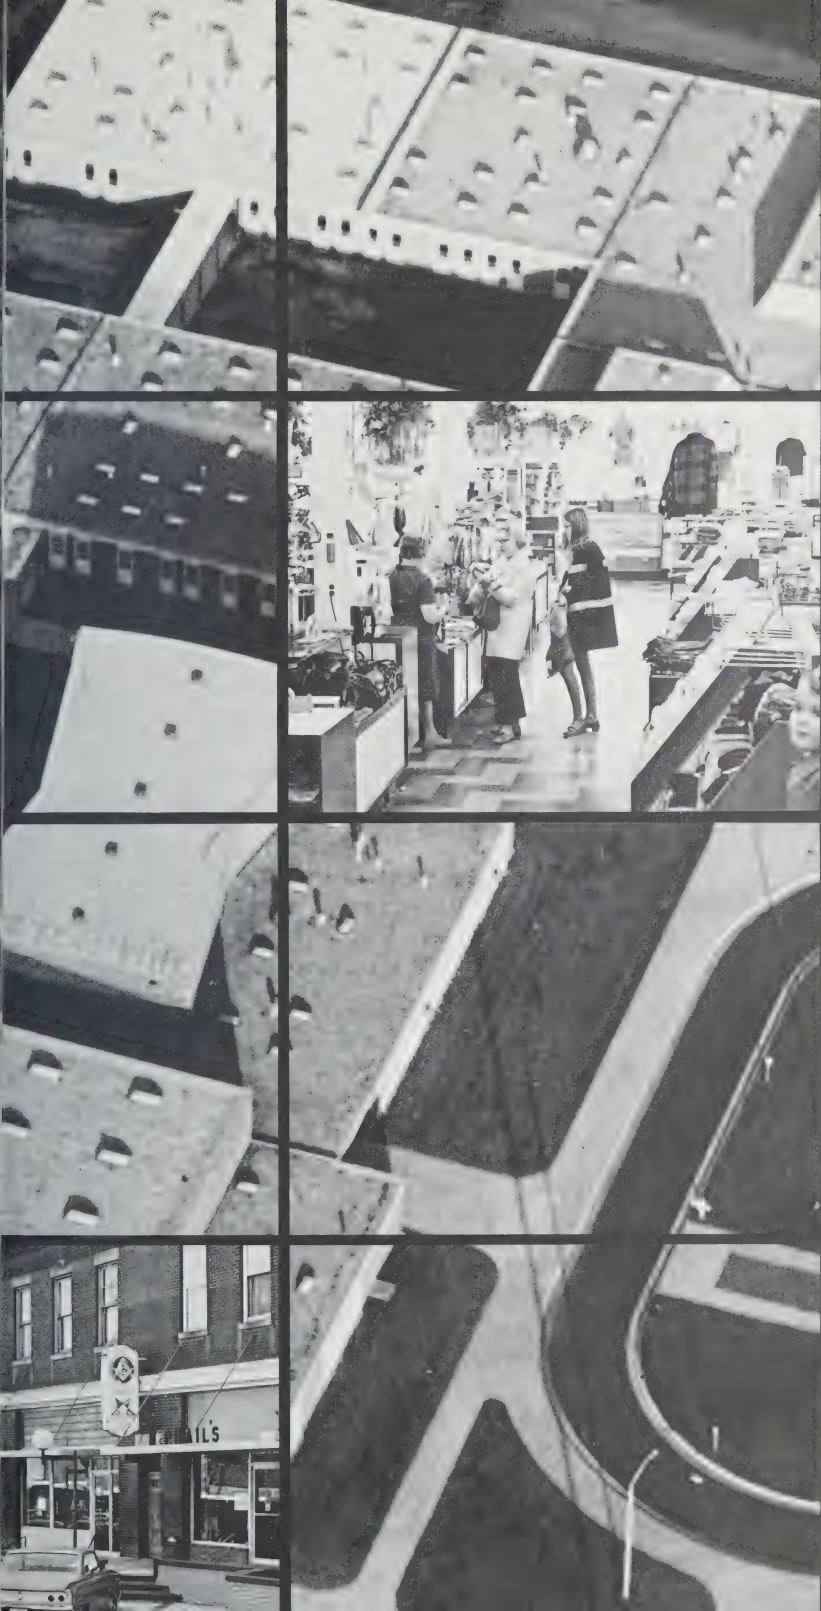

FB LA Student of the Month smiles obligingly for cameraman.

Helping To Build A Finer Carolina

CP&L contributes to the area's growth in many ways. For example, when our industrial development specialists help a new industry find a site, it improves job opportunities and increases the local tax base. When our agricultural development engineers help a farmer produce more profitably, it increases the flow of money in an area. So helping build a Finer Carolina is more than just a nice-sounding phrase. It's our daily way of doing business.
